Take your business to the next level

Get your business InSync

Doing business today means thinking smart and acting fast. That's only possible if you have access to all the information you need wherever and whenever you need it. You need to make sure that all your stuff is always in one place and always right up to date.

That's what we call being InSync.

Keeping your business InSync

We specialize in keeping your business portable and totally accessible, so no matter where you go, it's always right there with you. But mobility is just the start. You can reduce your dependency on IT hardware with a more secure, stable platform to work from. Keeping your data off site and in the cloud will reduce fixed costs, simplify management, and boost your productivity.

Staying InSync with the future

Cloud computing is the way of the future. No more clunky old servers, VPNs, high maintenance bills, constant crashes and persistent software issues. Online access to your business with a reliable set of applications will make life easier for you, your staff and your clients. You will benefit from greater collaboration, freedom and improved reliability. Share what you need to share, no matter where you are, and make the process more enjoyable.

Working InSync with Google

Google is the recognised leader in providing comprehensive cloud computing solutions for business. It's more than just e-mail management, instant messaging, calendar scheduling and word processing. Google provides a multi-purpose tool that includes the productivity-enhancing capabilities of all of these applications working together – plus the ability to foster innovation.

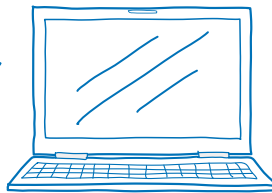

InSync with security

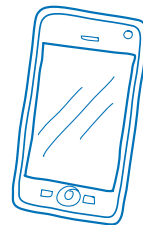

Google Apps are designed with security considerations upfront, not as afterthoughts. The development team comprises some of the world's leading experts in information, application and network security. Cloud computing can improve security in a number of ways, e.g. being able to access data from anywhere, employees no longer need to take sensitive information away on portable media or leave printed documents around for prying eyes.

At the Office

On the move

In a meeting

Using regular broadband internet access, you can work from anywhere on any type of connected hardware from desktop and laptop computers, to smartphones and tablets – and whatever else the future holds.

InSync with McDonalds IT

McDonalds IT is a small, caring team dedicated to helping businesses work smarter and more cost-effectively. Our role is to take the hassle out of IT and reduce your dependency on hardware so that you can get on with more productive work without worrying about system management and maintenance. We help reduce your overheads while providing maximum security, improved functionality, and tailored support contracts.

Let's get InSync right away!

Here's how it works: we do a business audit to assess your needs then come back with a detailed plan and recommended suite of Google Business Apps. With your approval we set the new system up off-site before completing a changeover at a time that suits you and does not disrupt your day-to-day business. We then provide ongoing support you require to ensure you stay InSync with Google upgrades and new technology as it comes to hand.

Get more mobility, accessibility, flexibility, collaboration, efficiency.
